Course Description
This course presents an intellectual history of Britain and America. It sets out to identify various historical events and considers how they have impacted upon the cultural and political trends that have emerged in both the US and Great Britain. While taking into account the different approaches of either country, some emphasis is placed upon those common intellectual trends which bind Britain and the US. The course also considers the way Britain and the US have responded to and have been influenced by some significant political and ideological developments in other parts of the world. Assessment: attendance and participation (20%), midterm (30%), final exam (50%).
