COURSE DETAIL

PROTEST IN CONTEMPORARY EASTERN EUROPE
Country Denmark
Host Institution University of Copenhagen
Program(s) University of Copenhagen
UCEAP Course Level Upper Division
UCEAP Subject Area(s) History European Studies
UCEAP Course Number 138
UCEAP Course Suffix
UCEAP Official Title PROTEST IN CONTEMPORARY EASTERN EUROPE
UCEAP Transcript Title PROTEST/CONTEM EUR
UCEAP Quarter Units 12.00
UCEAP Semester Units 8.00

Course Description

This course focuses on protest and activism in contemporary Eastern Europe. It focuses primarily on the post-Soviet region, particularly Russia, Belarus, and Ukraine. However, through guest lectures, it also explores protest in Poland and the former Yugoslavia. The course examines various types of protest movements and political activism, including environmental movements and grass-root initiatives, protest events and large scale protest movements, activism and political activities of political emigrants, and other contemporary cases in the region. Furthermore, it introduces several theories related to studies of protest and social movements. The course consists of lectures, discussions, and student presentations.

Language(s) of Instruction
English

Host Institution Course Number
HØEK0111EU

Host Institution Course Title
PROTEST IN CONTEMPORARY EASTERN EUROPE

Host Institution Course Details
https://kurser.ku.dk/course/h%c3%98ek0111eu/2022-2023

Host Institution Campus

Host Institution Faculty
Faculty of Humanities

Host Institution Degree
Bachelor

Host Institution Department
Department of Cross-Cultural and Regional Studies

Course Last Reviewed
2022-2023

Print