Course Description

This course focuses on elaborating the logic of the interaction between non-profit organizations and the government by introducing the theoretical evolution of the relationship between non-profit organizations and the government while also touching upon the NGO-government relationship models in several countries. This course aims to clarify how non-profit organizations could contribute in social development, and examine how civil society organization development and organizational actions would influence the formal power structure. This course would explore the development trend and institutional construction of the relationship between non-profit organizations and government in China.
