Course Description

Political upheaval is used in the very structure of Charles Dickens's A TALE OF TWO CITIES (1859) which alternates between London and Paris during the time of the French revolution. It is an opportunity to study the way the British viewed these eventful years and compare it to a post-colonial novel, MIDNIGHT'S CHILDREN (1981) by Salman Rushdie, whose magic realism is a response to history. The course is based on comparative studies of extracts taken from both novels and the last courses focus on movie adaptations.
