Course Description
This course is taught in two sections A and B. Students may enroll in a single session with the approval of the instructor. This course is thematically organized to achieve a critical and broad-ranging understanding of the essential elements embodied within, and characteristic of, Japanese literary and cultural modernity from the end of the Edo period in the mid-nineteenth century (circa 1850), through the early twentieth century and the interwar era and war years and into the postwar decades. Focusing on seminal literary texts, modern autobiographical narratives, modes of cultural expression, and Japanese cinematic works ranging from the productions of Kumai Kei, Fushimizu Osamu, and Yamamoto Satsuo, the course aims to elucidate socio-historical perspectives to the understanding of one of the most dynamic intellectual and literary traditions not only in modern East Asia, but also in the world at large. Assessment: midterm (25%), final exam (25%), class presentation and attendance (25%), written work assignment (25%).
