Course Description

This course further develops students' understanding of developmental psychology by exploring the contribution that major theories of developmental psychology have made to our understanding of a number of issues relevant to the lives of children and young people in contemporary society. Three themes cut across all topics - the role of theory in guiding research, the importance of adopting a developmental perspective, and critical analysis of research. The course illustrates how theories and research in developmental psychology are applied to guide and inform practice and policy relating to contemporary issues that affect the lives of children and young people.
