COURSE DETAIL

MAKING POLICY IN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Country
United Kingdom - England

Host Institution
University College London

Program(s)
Summer at University College London

UCEAP Course Level
Upper Division

UCEAP Subject Area(s)
Political Science Development Studies

UCEAP Course Number
110

UCEAP Course Suffix
S

UCEAP Official Title
MAKING POLICY IN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

UCEAP Transcript Title
POLICY/INTL DEVELOP

UCEAP Quarter Units
6.00

UCEAP Semester Units

4.00

Course Description

This course deals with the empirical reality, theory, and current governance problems of development, poverty, and inequality. Specifically, throughout the course students investigate the influence of colonialism, state capacity, regime type, war and conflict, accountability, social structures, and corruption on development. This course engages with both economic theory regarding development and political science research that highlights the challenges to implementing the policies that would lead to economic development. Students take these theories and use to them to then think about and develop research-informed policies that promote development.

Language(s) of Instruction
English

Host Institution Course Number
ISSU0102

Host Institution Course Title
MAKING POLICY IN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Host Institution Course Details http://https://www.ucl.ac.uk/prospective-students/summer-school/modules/making-...

Host Institution Campus

Host Institution Faculty

Host Institution Degree
Bachelors

Host Institution Department
Political Science

Course Last Reviewed

2022-2023

Print