Course Description
The European Union (EU) is today –together with the US and China– one of the leading actors in the world, especially in trade, investment, and development policy. With regard to Foreign and Security policy the EU is making slow progress towards reaching a comparable level of influence. Based on the actual state and perspectives of the EU –in a crucial year 2019 with the next elections to the European Parliament and the designation of the future EU-Commission– the seminar examines the most important areas and problems facing the EU in its external environment, from the neighborhood to the necessary partners in a globalized world. The objective is to enable the students –either later in politics, administration, or in business– to dispose of a solid basis for evaluating major developments.
