Course Description
This course focuses on exploring gender studies in sociology. The course introduces students to the concepts of sex and gender, and integrates a range of theoretical approaches to the study of gender, with specific issues in relation to gender inequalities. The central theme of the course is continuity and change in gender relations. There have been many changes in the lives of Irish men and women in the last 30 years that are of particular interest. Topics include gender inequalities in Irish society, the social construction of male and female roles, education, paid and unpaid work, the body; representations of masculinity and femininity, and power and sexuality.
