Course Description
This course discusses the milestones of the history of the Czech Lands going back to primeval times. The course explores the highlights of Czech history in the broader cultural context of Europe, including the empire under Charles IV, religious wars in the Middle Ages, the impact of world wars, and the struggle of the Czech people under the communist regime. The course examines the different ethnicities that populated the territory, including Celtic, Germanic, and Slavic tribes; Czechs; Germans; Jews; and Slovaks; and the general features of their political, social, and cultural life, and their impact on historical developments as well as modern-day Czech Republic.
