Course Description

This course provides a study of the characteristics of multilateral institutions within the framework in which states and non-state actors negotiate global governance initiatives. It examines the running themes of the conflict between North and South, the capacity of international organizations to promote cooperation between states, the impact of non-state actors (such as companies, transnational networks of experts, civil society) on global governance, and the role of emerging powers (including China, India, Brazil, among others) in multilateral institutions.
