Course Description
This course provides students with the knowledge needed to understand the functioning of the economy as a whole. The course investigates the determination of important macroeconomic aggregate variables such as the gross domestic product of a country, the price level, the unemployment rate, the rate of interest, and the exchange rate that play a major role in shaping the external environment in which firms and other economic organizations operate. Topics covered in this course include national accounting, the goods market and financial markets, macroeconomic equilibrium and macroeconomic policies in a closed economy, unemployment, inflation, the open economy, the balance of payments and the exchange rate, and government debt. Students are assessed on a midterm and a final exam. There are two versions of this course, one taught in Italian and one taught in English. This is the English taught course.
