Course Description

This is a beginning-level course that provides students with the basic skills needed to communicate on a daily basis, including grammar, conversation, listening, writing, and reading comprehension. The course is designed to develop practical knowledge of the Czech language, allowing for function in everyday situations and facilitating a degree of integration into Czech culture and society. The course focuses on correct pronunciation and the acquisition of pertinent vocabulary and phraseology. Grammatical topics are introduced and employed as tools allowing for the use of Czech in simple conversational situations. The course also includes topics related to the Czech culture as a basic introduction to Czech society and customs. This course is intended for students who do not intend to continue their study of Czech and desire an introduction to the fundamentals of Czech grammar, syntax, and vocabulary.
