COURSE DETAIL

THEORIES AND PRACTICES OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Country Hong Kong
Host Institution Chinese University of Hong Kong
Program(s) Chinese University of Hong Kong
UCEAP Course Level Upper Division
UCEAP Subject Area(s) International Studies
UCEAP Course Number 110
UCEAP Course Suffix
UCEAP Official Title THEORIES AND PRACTICES OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
UCEAP Transcript Title THEORIES INTL RELAT
UCEAP Quarter Units 4.50
UCEAP Semester Units 3.00

Course Description
This course introduces the academic field of international relations (IR). It examines major theories, key concepts, and approaches that are often employed in studying international relations, and enhances students' ability to actually apply those theories and concepts to better understand and explain international relations and international issues confronting our international society today. The course provides a variety of in-depth case studies and, in the process, provides students with enough knowledge to be able to suggest possible solutions to the various problems that exist in the current international system. Through the theoretical and practical study of international relations, students discover that international relations are often very complex, involving multiple actors, many issues, several enduring questions, and different perspectives. This course provides analytical tools and practical knowledge to better navigate through this complex world.

Language(s) of Instruction
English

Host Institution Course Number
GLBS3101

Host Institution Course Title
THEORIES AND PRACTICES OF INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Host Institution Course Details

Host Institution Campus

Host Institution Faculty

Host Institution Degree

Host Institution Department
Global Studies

Course Last Reviewed

Print