Course Description

Semester 1 classes explore the specific relationship between language and culture. Students analyze linguistic texts, poems, still images, film, and longer literary texts in order to understand how these objects are shaped by their own particular "language." In semester 2, the focus shifts to the analysis of forms of reading under the themes of space and the city, cultural translation, and misrepresentation and misinformation in the Italian context. Seminars focus on Italian language-specific and area-specific material that relate to the themes covered in lectures.
