Course Description

This course covers foundations of brand management and marketing communications (including advertising). The course takes a strong consumer-based focus, therefore the foundation of branding and advertising in consumer behavior and consumer psychology theories are discussed. The course discusses theory that is at the foundation of branding and advertising and then applies it through team assignments on students' chosen brands. The course consists of two parts: The first part covers brand management. In this part of the course, the nature of brands in consumers' minds, the concept of brand equity, and instruments to build and leverage brands are discussed. The second part of the course focuses on integrated marketing communications. This part of the course looks at the concept of Integrated Marketing Communications, the communication process, and theories of consumer behavior and response.
