Course Description

This course develops a rigorous understanding of core economic models and analysis, together with an ability to apply the analysis in a variety of contexts. It looks at the theory of the firm and market structure, factor markets, externalities, the role of government and general equilibrium, with applications to monopoly and oligopoly, stock markets, property rights and public goods. Along with two economics lectures each week, a third lecture focuses on mathematical techniques including constrained optimization. Students with a weak math background need to be prepared to work at developing their math skills.
