Course Description

Open Art is designed to introduce, familiarize and induct students into workshops and labs. Practical and conceptual lines of inquiry are examined through set projects in classes and workshops. This course provides the opportunity for an immersive, experiential exploration of concepts through a range of traditional and new media technologies. Classes and workshops offer relevant practical information designed to stimulate and develop technical skills and diverse modes of inquiry. Projects are designed to complement and underpin individual studio-based research in the first year of study.
