Course Description

This course provides students with a comprehensive overview of this fast-growing market from the perspective of the investor, management team/entrepreneur, and fund manager – and concludes with an external assessment of the benefits (and failings) of private equity). In terms of how the course is taught, this course combines both a theoretical academic understanding of the industry with the practical vocational aspects to provide some of the skills required to work within the industry, taught by someone who is a partner at a private equity focused investment banking firm, has invested in PE deals and who has been backed as a manager in a start-up. Overall, the course provides students with vital knowledge to be able to understand how private equity interacts with other alternative and mainstream asset classes and offers context relevant to those considering careers in investment banking, asset management, accountancy, and private equity. It also provides an insight into different types of private equity (e.g. venture and growth capital) to address the relevance for start-ups and early stage businesses.
