Course Description

This introductory course is a practical platform for students to build their understanding of games, immersive media, and film. The course provides students with an overview of the skills, knowledge, and understanding needed to create both games and film work. Students work in lab environments to both develop practical outcomes with industry-orientated skillset and acquire a critical understanding through foundational lectures. It includes an introduction to film-editing and 3D Design for Games, integrated into group and individual project activities.
