Course Description

This course introduces students to the cultures and literatures of the Portuguese-speaking world, specifically Portugal, Brazil, and Mozambique. While it explores the fascinating history of each of these countries through cultural products that range from film, literature and music, colonialism has played a crucial part in this history and its journey to modernity. The course offers a glimpse into societies whose people have continually dealt with the aftermath of imperialism, racism, and economic exploitation, and that have also shown enormous creativity and resilience.
