Course Description
This course investigates the last century of international politics. It explores international history of the two world wars and the Cold War as well as the post-Cold War period, but it does not attempt to cover every aspect of the years since 1914. Instead it focuses on key decisions and turning points, analyzing them in depth and placing them in context. As the course progresses, students are encouraged to make comparisons and to draw out wider themes as well as to develop their knowledge and understanding of the individual topics.
