Course Description
This course provides an introduction to China's Intellectual Property Law, and in-depth survey of Chinese legal tradition and legal philosophy on a historic-cultural analysis basis. The course also covers the unspoken rules of cultural-genetic application of laws and regulations in China, and Chinese legal culture as a part of the business environment. Topics include copyright law, patent law, trade mark law, legal protection of trade secret and trade dress, anti-unfair competition law, small-to-medium enterprise (SME's) intellectual property strategy, the enforcement of intellectual property law, and dispute settlement. Doctrine-hermeneutics and case-analysis is applied in each part of the course. Assessment: class participation (20%), assignments (40%), final exam (40%).
