Course Description

The purpose of the course is to improve students' professional and creative writing abilities through the monthly publication of an online journal: taidajournal.tumblr.com. Students work together as a team to publish each issue, writing and editing stories. News stories as well as those that lean more toward creative writing are accepted. The class includes group discussions, workshops, peer editing conferences, and in-class presentations. Students usually spend the first week of the month presenting their ideas to the class and commenting on their classmates' ideas.
