Course Description
This course focuses on an active and passive knowledge of the German language. It prepares students to be able to read, take notes, follow a discussion in German, and address the political and media language in German-speaking countries. The focus is on terminology used in twentieth-century German politics and institutions. The course focuses on examining and exercising the main syntax and grammatical structures needed to reach the B1 level of knowledge of the German language according to the European Reference Framework for Languages. All class materials are primary sources in the field of political science written in German. Enrollment in the course is reserved for students who have at least an A1+ level in German, but preferably an A2 level. Main text for the course is: TEDESCO PER FILOSOFI by G. Scotto. The course includes lectures, in-class exercises, and graded homework assignments. Assessment is based on a written and oral examination. Students must pass the written exam to be admitted to the oral exam.
