Course Description

This course covers how the recent notion of solidarity economy takes shape in the societies of sub-Saharan Africa. For this, it is important to know the general principles of solidarity economics as well as the geography of Africa for the purpose of identifying different manifestations of this notion in different areas of the continent. Thus, the course is focused on understanding the vitality and diversity of solidarity initiatives across thematic studies which illuminate territories and geographic spaces in which they are found. The other objective is to provide a range of readings of logics and perspectives in which these practices of solidarity economics can be understood.
