Course Description
The main focus of this course is on factors (etiology) and mechanisms (pathogenesis) that contribute to the development and continuation of developmental psychopathological disorders of children and adolescents. Additionally, attention is given to macro- and micro-paradigms of developmental psychopathology as well as other developmental models. Emphasis is on the complex interaction between social, cognitive, behavioral, and societal factors involved in the development of these disorders. Additionally, problem behaviors that are not necessary disorders, but concern parents when bringing up their child and/or adolescent are addressed. During the workgroups, attention is given to critical-reflection of the material, by means of finding additional scientific literature on a chosen disorder. This literature is used as the basis for the scientific paper.
