Course Description

This course is offered during the first two weeks of the program. It is designed to begin to learn how to properly and effectively communicate in Moroccan dialect. The course introduces words, phrases, expressions, and structures used in everyday life. It also introduces Moroccan culture and the cultural context of communication in order to better communicate with Moroccans. The course adopts a communicative methodology to develop immediate survival conversational competence. Role plays and simulations, group work with native speakers, and field-based activities are used to increase exposure to the target language.
