Course Description

This course focuses on translation methodology. Students translate texts extracted from a variety of sources: literature, news articles, short stories, etc. The course introduction includes exercises to help students master the nuances of translation. A thorough understanding of technical terms of translation is provided. The course combines the translation of English to French and French to English texts. The course covers an advanced emphasis on syntax, idioms, and grammar. It also discusses the particularities between British and American English when translating French colloquial expressions.
