Course Description
This course provides a thorough understanding of core concepts and methods of microeconomics, as a foundation for subsequent study of microeconomic topics and as one of the key elements in the professional training of an economist. Students learn the main elements of microeconomic theory, at a level appropriate for an economics graduate, as well as microeconomic models and problems expressed in standard mathematical terms. Students use microeconomic concepts and methods to analyze and interpret real-world microeconomic phenomena, and assess issues of microeconomic policy.
