Course Description
This course focuses on the general theme of the internationalization of Britain. It looks first at British imperial identity in the last decades of the nineteenth century and how this was affected by the period of global conflict between 1914 and 1945. It then turns attention to the end of Empire and the after effects of Empire on British identities; Europeanization of Britain (economy, trade, culture, sport) and American cultural influences. The course then considers those in Britain who are resisting such pressures which has resulted in anti-immigration sentiment, Little Englander sentiments, the Brexit debate, and the idea of Britain's decline.
