Course Description
Tikanga, the customary system of values and practices that have developed over time and are deeply embedded in the social context, are dynamic and creative, constantly changing over time. This course explores how tikanga Maori have evolved since the first arrival of the tupuna in Aotearoa from the Pacific, and the arrival of settlers from Europe, Asia and elsewhere; trace historical debates among Maori and with other New Zealanders; and how tikanga Maori might contribute to pathways into the future.
