Course Description
This course examines the Pentecostal phenomenon in Ghana. It discusses the historical development of Pentecostalism in general as well as its phenomenal growth in Ghana. The roles of some major African players e.g Wade Harris, John Swatson and Sampson Oppong are evaluated in view of the semblance between the Pentecostal phenomena and the African worldview. At the core of this course is the study of the characteristics of the various categories of the Pentecostal expressions in Ghana. The course examines Pentecostal Spirituality, Theology and Practice as well as the impact of Pentecostalism on the social life of Ghanaians. It also addresses the problems of Pentecostalism in contemporary times.
