Course Description

This course examines how to write for an authentic audience, and first person narratives that move people`s minds and hearts. The course begins with literacy narratives, learning how they work and how writing our own can expose our own assumptions and tendencies about writing in English. Then, the course covers the genre of the Personal Statement or Statement of Purpose, not as a "template" but as a means to get to know ourselves deeply in order to communicate our best selves persuasively. It covers how to read like a writer and apply that learning to our own writing. By the end of the course, students will have written, through multiple drafts, two first person essays: a literacy narrative and a statement of purpose, following the guidelines of the graduate program of their choice. This is a writing intensive course.

Prerequisite: Writing 1 or Writing 2 or ideally, BOTH. It is assumed that you have already taken a writing class at the university level.
