Course Description
Upon completing the course, students with foreign education backgrounds and native languages other than the Scandinavian languages and Finnish have acquired basic skills in the Swedish language and some knowledge about Swedish society. The course includes systematic reading and practicing of basic grammatical structures and principles of pronunciation, reading of textbooks as well as easy authentic texts, exercises in pronunciation, exercises in listening comprehension, and short exercises in oral and written communication. On completion of the reading and writing portion of the course, students: demonstrate knowledge of, and fairly safely and correctly are able to apply, basic grammatical structures in Swedish; are able to acquire understanding of Swedish fiction and are able to follow the fundamental features of complex texts that treat current phenomena and that express attitudes and opinions; are able to write clear and detailed text within their fields of interest, and write a thesis or report that communicates information or gives causes for or against a certain position. On completion of the listening comprehension and oral proficiency portion of the course, students are able to: comment clearly and in detail pertaining a large number of different subjects, and discuss advantages and disadvantages of different solutions; take active part in discussions about well-known subjects and explain and defend their opinions; show understanding of the greater part of news and current programs on radio and TV, and be able to acquire understanding of longer productions, e.g. lectures, where the subject is fairly known.
