Course Description
This class provides an overview of the principles of ecotourism in view of the sustainable and responsible practice of tourism. The course covers the history and current issues of different forms of tourism, ecotourism development, and the behavioral, societal, and business aspects of ecotourism vs. traditional tourism. The course also covers the principles and challenges of natural and cultural resource conservation, environment and tourism, park-based ecotourism, CBNRM tourism and local communities. Overall, the course is designed to help students understand why ecotourism is a growing segment of the global travel and tourism industry that is making significant positive contributions to the environmental, social, cultural, and economic well-being of destination communities worldwide.
