Course Description

This intermediate course is designed for students who have acquired an elementary level of Japanese. It develops an understanding of Japanese language through the introduction of new grammar patterns necessary for communication in Japanese. Approximately 150 new kanji are introduced at a rate of 10 per week. Students learn the correct stroke order of kanji, kanji compounds, and how to differentiate polite and casual forms of similar verbs based on kanji composition. Additionally, students have the chance to view various media in Japanese and discuss recent events in Japanese to further their Japanese proficiency and fluency.
