Course Description

This is an advanced course for students who already have experience in drawing techniques. Enrollment is by consent of the instructor. The course is part of the Laurea Triennale degree in Sculpture. Students are required to attend the theoretical part and the studio laboratory, and to complete individual projects. The theoretical part of the course focuses on contemporary artists who use drawing as their main medium. Students learn to view and reinterpret the body from new perspectives, through life drawing exercises in class, scheduled outings in public spaces, and performance to gain an interdisciplinary understanding of the human body. Through drawing, the body is seen not only for its physical form and as an element of the organism, but also as the subjective expression of emotion. Assessment is based on two individual critiques and one group critique of work, and the presentation of a final, individual project.
