Course Description

Contemporary global problems such as pollution, biodiversity loss, and population growth are critical issues for the planet's future and demonstrate the interdependence of social and environmental systems. This course unpacks the complexity of these challenges by analyzing different manifestations of "a world in crisis" as questions of geography - shaped by geographic processes operating at a range of scales (from the global to the local). The course thus explores how Geography works as a "world discipline" that is equipped to examine global problems from a range of human, environmental and physical geography perspectives.
