Course Description

This course explores the connection between popular culture and social, cultural, political, and economic developments in Western societies from 1945 to 1991. Topics include: adolescence, music, and subcultures-- from beatniks and mods to punks and rappers; from atomic fears to the glorification of violence-- horror and science fiction; gender, sexual diversity, race, and pop culture-- discourses and counter-discourses; fear and social control-- from the witch hunt to the moral panic.
