Course Description

The Asia Workshop is a dynamic working space where students and instructors work together to discuss emerging issues in Asia. Topics for discussion changes every year to keep up with changes at both regional and global scales.

This workshop discusses the following questions: What is Asia? Is Asia just a group of countries with different cultures, histories, and economies? What is so unique about Asia? What, in addition to its geographical location, makes Asia “Asian” and remain “Asian” in the context of globalization?

The workshop provides an answer to these questions through a series of guest-speaker lectures on Asia and its member countries and presents fieldwork activities to engage students in intensive observation of what is around their living environment. Immersive technologies will be introduced to facilitate students’ first-hand observations.
