Course Description

Constitutional law concerns some of the most fundamental questions about the nation, society, and individuals. It is a body of law governed not only by the wording of the text itself, but also by the implementation and interpretation thereof as contained in specific laws, administrative acts, legal judgments, doctrines, etc. By providing students with the basic tools necessary, this course enables their own formulation and development of their own ideas concerning constitutional issues in Japan. The course covers the context and history of the constitution; the renunciation of war; the emperor, and the protection of human rights.
