Course Description

This course introduces students to the mutually influential art of the East and the West. The first half of the course focuses on "Shosoin Treasures and Buddhist Art of Todaiji Temple," with the objective of fostering an interest in the origins of traditional designs and symbols in Japanese art. The second half of the course covers different topics, one of which is the visualization of the "Arabian Nights" and consideration of Orientalism and Japonisme in art. The course also considers manuscript illustrations from the Islamic world and Japanese picture scrolls, comparing media and painting materials with the actual objects, while reviewing the history of printing technology using plant-fiber paper.
