Course Description

Drawing is the most important part of the design process. The purpose of drawing is threefold:

1. The process of drawing itself establishes the creative process of the design. The thoughts are constantly transformed along with the drawing and thinking.
2. After the drawing is completed, it becomes a tool for communication with other people. Through the explanation of pictures, people can better understand one's design concept.
3. The goal of drawing is nothing more than to get all the details of the design that the designer wants. The drawing communicates to engineers how to perform production work.
