Course Description

The course mainly concerns basic theories of theater art. Through the course, students will get an overall view of the history of western theater and think about the fusion of different forms of theater so that they are able to understand the essence of theater and have a prospect of the development of the world’s theater arts in the future. The course considers the theater art of the world as a whole as opposed to the usual idea which confronts the theater of the East to that of the West. It thoroughly introduces the main theory issues of the history, aesthetics, phenomena, and performances of theater art which appear in the process of its development including the emergence, characteristics, form, language, structure, narration, performance, directing, space, genre, school, function, aesthetics of theater etc.
