Course Description

This course provides an introduction to Middle Eastern History from the dramatic reconfiguration of the Middle East in late Antiquity to its contested and contentious recent past. It explores political, social, and cultural life across the Middle East through the comparative treatment of several themes. These may include states and authority; social dislocation and transformation; belief and literary expression; identity; and cross-cultural engagement. The course also defines and explores key moments of transition, including the spread of Islam, Turkic irruptions, and European encounters. Collectively these have profoundly influenced the modern Middle East.
