Course Description

This is a studio art course in which students create aesthetic works using various metals and methods. Based on each student's individual research in the field of metalcraft, this course allows students to explore and deepen personal topics, and to creatively apply them to thesis work and research. Through this process, students develop their abilities as independent metalcraft artists and educators.

Students are expected to propose a topic and conduct research on that topic and work on creating an art piece that aligns with their theoretical, conceptual, and contextual research.
