Course Description

This course builds upon the knowledge of Mandarin Chinese acquired in the Introduction to Chinese Language and Culture course. It also supports learners at more advanced levels (A2–B2) by expanding their vocabulary and allowing them to progress based on their individual language proficiency. Students are divided into two groups based on their current language level. Each group meets once per week for two hours in the classroom. Students may attend the other group's sessions if they wish. Conversation practice is emphasized throughout the course. Listening skills are developed using audiovisual materials, while reading and writing skills are practiced through weekly assignments, such as writing short articles and reading texts. After completion of this course students are able to demonstrate an intermediate level of Mandarin Chinese through the acquisition of at least 200 new vocabulary words on top of their starting proficiency level, hold everyday conversations in Chinese, and tell or retell a simple story both verbally and in written form (using a computer). The following course module must be completed: [UCHUMCHI11] Introduction to Chinese Language and Culture
