Course Description

This course integrates three key components—Linguistic Knowledge, Language Communication Skills, and Culture and Literature—to strengthen students' Taiwanese listening, speaking, reading, and writing abilities at the intermediate to advanced level. Using literature and authentic texts, students will learn to write with natural Taiwanese grammar, while audiovisual materials such as music, radio programs, magazines, and documentaries build confidence in applying the language across everyday and academic contexts. Through lectures and hands-on activities, the course encourages creative and practical learning, preparing students to use Taiwanese effectively in diverse fields.
