Course Description

The long-run economic development of countries, as well as inequality within countries are the major topics of this course. The course reviews the major conceptual approaches to economic development and applies those to the actual experience of countries. In this way, the global variety of development experiences becomes a central topic of the course, addressing topics such as investment, trade, building institutions, population dynamics, education, health, and migration. The material that we cover suggests that inequality of the distribution of income resulting from differences across the population in terms of access to education, health services, or infrastructure can be a major obstacle to economic development. Throughout the course, public policy options for stimulating development are made central, especially in the assignment that students carry out. Prerequisite SSC1027 Principles of Economics. Knowledge of basic quantitative concepts such as reading and working with graphs and simple equations is also a prerequisite
